MARK SCHEME for the May/June 2010 question paper for the guidance of teachers

0470 HISTORY

0470/11

Paper 11, maximum raw mark 60

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes must be read in conjunction with the question papers and the report on the examination.

- CIE will not enter into discussions or correspondence in connection with these mark schemes.

CIE is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2010 question papers for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level syllabuses and some Ordinary Level syllabuses.

APPLICATION OF THE MARK SCHEME

1 Use of the Mark Scheme

- 1.1 It is not possible to cover every possible type of response within a levels of response mark scheme and examiners are expected to use their professional judgement at all times in ensuring that responses are placed in the correct levels and given an appropriate mark within that level.
- 1.2 Marking must be positive. Marks must not be deducted for inaccurate or irrelevant answers. Half-marks must not be used.
- 1.3 The full range of marks should be used. Do not be afraid to award full marks or no marks. Failure to do this will seriously affect the distribution of marks. Be prepared to reward candidates who show any level of understanding. The mark scheme starts from basic acceptable response.
- 1.4 Be consistent from script to script and from batch to batch.
- 1.5 Indicate that all answers have been seen.
- 1.6 Do not transfer marks from one part of a question to another.
- 1.7 If a candidate reaches a particular level s/he must be rewarded with a mark within that level. It is not necessary to work through the levels.
- 1.8 Exhaustive lists of possible facts are not given in the mark scheme, as there is often a choice of factual knowledge that candidates may use.
- 1.9 WHERE EXAMPLES OF RESPONSES ARE GIVEN, THESE ARE NOT PRESCRIPTIVE, BUT ARE INTENDED AS A GUIDE.
- 1.10 Where a band of marks is indicated for a level these marks should be used with reference to the development of the answer within that level.

2 Marking

- 2.1 All marking should be in red.
- 2.2 The level, and mark awarded for each part question, MUST be shown clearly in the margin of the script towards the end of an answer, e.g. L3/8.
- 2.3 At the end of each question the total mark achieved by the candidate for that question MUST be indicated in a circle.
- 2.4 The total mark for each question should be transferred to the front page of the script. The marks for the three questions should be totalled and indicated. The final total for the script should then be circled.
- 2.6 It is not necessary to tick the body of an answer and examiners should refrain from doing so.
- 2.7 Examiners must indicate, in the body of the response, where a level has been achieved and, where appropriate, marks are gained.

3 Assessment Objectives

- 3.1 The Assessment Objectives being tested in each part of a question are:
 - (a) recall, description
 - (b) recall, explanation
 - (c) recall, explanation and analysis.

(b) Why were there revolutions in Italy in 1848?

Level 1 General answer [1]

e.g. 'Because people were unhappy.'
'It was the year of European-wide revolutions.'

Level 2 Identifies why [2–4]

(One mark for each)

e.g. 'There was a general trend towards change.'

Page 4	Mark Scheme: Teachers' version	Syllabus	Paper
	IGCSE – May/June 2010	0470	11

Level 3 Explains why

[4–7]

(Award one mark for an explanation, additional mark for full explanation.)

e.g. 'There was a general trend of disgust across Europe. There was an urge for more freedom and greater participation in government. There was rising nationalism and increased social problems.'

'The writings of Mazzini and the actions of the Young Italy movement began to make an impact, especially among intellectuals. Mazzini's call for the removal of the Austrians and the forming of an Italian Republic appealed to many especially in the middle to late '40s with so much happening in the rest of Europe.'

'Pope Pius IX was elected in 1846. He was considered liberal minded at first and he raised hope that the Papal States may take the lead in forming a new Italy under the leadership of the Pope. It was hoped that he would denounce the occupation of Italian States by the Austrians, who were mainly Catholic.'

'In the mid to late '40s, there was hope that a leader would emerge who would lead the Italian States into the removal of the Austrian forces in the northern Italian States. Charles Albert seemed a likely leader, who with possible help from outside, might evict the Austrians. He ruled Piedmont–Sardinia, which was the most powerful Italian State both economically and militarily.'

(c) 'The European revolutions of 1848–9 were successful.' How far do you agree with this statement?

Explain your answer.

Level 1 Unsupported assertions

[1]

e.g. 'They achieved nothing because they failed.'

Level 2 Identifies impact

[2–3]

e.g. 'The revolutions provided lessons for the governments and their opponents.'

'The clash of aims made success impossible.'

'Demands were initially agreed to and then power regained.'

'Popular enthusiasm was short-lived.'

	IGCSE – May/June 2010	0470	11

Level 3 Explains agreement OR disagreement

[3–5]

e.g. 'At first the revolution in Hungary looked as though it would be a success but the Magyar nationalists fought the Croat nationalists instead of joining together to win their independence from Austria. As a result, the revolution led by Louis Kossuth was brutally suppressed.'

'Longer term, the brief period of Magyar rule was not in vain. By 1867 Magyar was the official language of Hungary, the Diet had regained much of its old importance and the March Laws were accepted. Hungary was now an equal partner with Austria.'

'The liberals and nationalists wanted Austrians out of Italy for good. Charles Albert did not get the expected support and, as a result, he was heavily defeated. The Pope was driven from the Holy City. Charles Albert was defeated again and abdicated. Venice was captured by Austria.'

'Revolutions spread across Germany. Liberals and nationalists met to draft a new constitution but failed. Prussian attempts to become the leader of a united Germany were quashed by Austria.'

'In France, the monarchy fell and socialists and republicans formed a provisional government giving the vote to all men over 21. Louis Napoleon became President and then assumed the power of dictator. The power of the new legislative body was severely limited. Napoleon III set about improving Paris by clearing slums, building sewers and providing piped fresh water. France was modernised – up to date farming methods, railways built and educational standards improved.'

Level 4 Explains agreement AND disagreement

[5–7]

Both sides of Level 3

Level 5 Explains with evaluative judgement of 'how far'

[7–8]

(One mark for each relevant point; additional mark for supporting detail.)

e.g. 'They set up a General Staff to organise the army and plan its methods of fighting.'
'The General Staff encouraged subordinate commanders to take responsibility for decisions.'
'Prussian soldiers spent 2 years with the colours, 4 years with the reserves and 5 ½ years with the militia.'

(b) Why did France declare war on Prussia in 1870?

Level 1 General answer [1]

(One mark for each)

'There was an issue over Spain.'
'Gramont would not let the matter rest.'
'Bismarck used unscrupulous methods.'

Level 3 Explains why [4–7]

(Award one mark for an explanation, additional mark for full explanation.)

e.g. 'Bismarck had met with Napoleon III and France offered neutrality in the event of an Austro–Prussian war. In return France would receive some compensation. After the war, in 1866, France gained nothing.'

'Later Bismarck used these negotiations to arouse the suspicions of the other Great Powers against France and this inhibited them from coming to France's aid in the war.'

'It was suggested in 1870 that Prince Leopold should take the crown of Spain. France left Prussia in no doubt that this was unacceptable. So the matter was initially dropped but Bismarck raised it again in July. Again the French protested successfully. Stupidly Gramont, the French foreign minister, wanted to humiliate the Prussians by asking for a guarantee that the claim would not be renewed. Bismarck published a version in German newspapers making the telegram look insulting to the French. Public opinion, fuelled by crowds marching through the streets, pushed Napoleon III into war which was declared on 19 July 1870.'

Page 7	Mark Scheme: Teachers' version	Syllabus	Paper
	IGCSE – May/June 2010	0470	11

- (c) How far was Prussia's success in the war of 1870 responsible for the unification of Germany?
Explain your answer.

'It was mainly the actions of Bismarck which caused unification.'

'It was the Austro–Prussian War which ended the hopes of Austria in leading unified Germany.'

'The Franco–Prussian War ended the separate existence of states of the Confederation.'

Level 3 Explains agreement OR disagreement [3–5]

e.g. 'Many German nationalists saw Napoleon III claiming to be the leader of Europe. Many Germans feared that he would move against them. This fear made them more willing to consider uniting against the danger.'

'United by war, the states of Germany formed a German Empire with the King of Prussia as the Kaiser. This happened in 1871 after France had been defeated after the fall of Paris.'

'Bavaria, Wurttemberg and Baden had sent troops to support the German cause to fight alongside those of the North German Confederation. Now they agreed to join other German states in a New federation under the leadership of Prussia.'

'Bismarck became an unlikely advocate of a nationalist scheme for a united Germany which would exclude Austria. He was not a nationalist but a Prussian patriot.'

'The Zollverein provided a form of economic union bringing benefits to member states. It provided a model of closer co-operation.'

'The development of an integrated economy was important. In Prussia there was rapid industrial growth using natural resources of coal and iron ore and this fuelled economic growth. This industry also enabled the development of a railway system giving rapid mobilisation of troops and equipment. This financial strength and physical resources were of great value on the battlefield against Austria and France.'

'From the 1850s many of the middle-classes were rediscovering an appetite for national politics such as the National Society and these emphasised their common German identity.'

Explain your answer.

Level 1 Unsupported assertions [1]

'Japan adopted western ideas.'
'A new constitution was introduced.'
'The peasant farmer gained little.'
'Industrial power was in the hands of a few people.'
'The military was developed into an up to-date fighting force.'

Level 3 Explains agreement OR disagreement [3–5]

e.g. 'For Japan to modernise required the removal of the feudal system. To do this, they abolished the domains and the privileges of the daimyo and they abolished the privileges of the samurai. This resulted in one army rather than a number of private ones and one strong government based on Tokyo, not a number of semi-independent regional governments.'
'Japan aimed to demonstrate to foreign governments that it had changed. Western clothes were adopted by many of the ruling class. Gas and electricity were introduced into Japanese cities and the Western calendar was adopted. Education was seen as important and was compulsory from the age of four.
Japanese skills were taught alongside Western learning. Thousands were sent to foreign universities.'
'The numbers employed in industry, trade and finance began to rise, encouraged by government investment in coal mines, cement works, shipbuilding yards and textile mills.'
'Military changes resulted in a modern army and navy with officers trained overseas. Japan had by the end of the century an efficient well-equipped military with modern weapons.'
'Japan's system of government came under criticism in the late nineteenth century. A new constitution was introduced which allowed a constitutional monarchy. However, supreme power rested with the Emperor with the head of the government being responsible to the Emperor and not the elected assembly. The Emperor continued to choose his prime minister and cabinet ministers from a small group of distinguished leaders.'
'Agriculture was improved to meet increased demands but there was little comfort for the peasant farmer.'
'Rises in government expenditure in the 1860s resulted in the selling off cheaply of most of their factories. This resulted in single families controlling the economy.'

(b) Why was there a 'naval race' between Britain and Germany?

Level 1 General answer [1]

e.g. 'Germany started to build a big navy.'

'Both countries wanted to be the dominant world power.'

Level 2 Identifies why [2–4]

(One mark for each)

e.g. 'Germany wanted a large navy to challenge Britain's.'

Level 3 Explains why [4–7]

'The Germans made a determined effort to expand their navy with Admiral Tirpitz's Navy Law of 1897.'

'The launch of the super-battleship 'Dreadnought' in 1906 made all previous battleships obsolete or out of date. It was faster, bigger and had a much greater firing range than existing battleships. It meant Britain was only one new battleship ahead of Germany. A race developed between the two countries to see who could build the most.'

'Britain feared German world domination if the Kaiser had both the strongest navy and army. Britain worried that the German fleet would be based in the North Sea, while Britain's navy was spread around the world.'

Lloyd George wanted to reduce German strength but he did not want to make France too powerful and therefore he would resist the taking of German territory to aid France.'

'Clemenceau needed to placate a vociferous French public and therefore wanted severe terms like huge reparations to repair French damage. Britain had not been invaded and damaged and therefore Lloyd George wanted more moderate demands so that Germany would not seek revenge in the future and Britain could resume being an active trading partner with Germany.'

'Clemenceau felt that Lloyd George was quite happy to treat Germany fairly in Europe, where France rather than Britain was most under threat. Lloyd George, however, was less happy to allow Germany to keep its navy and colonies, which could be more of a threat to Britain.'

'The Germans felt they would be dealt with under the Fourteen Points. This was not so.'
'The Treaty aimed to destroy Germany economically. Europe needed a strong German industry.'

'On the other hand, many thought the peacemakers did a reasonable job. It was a complex matter and, given the demand for revenge, they could have been harsher as was the German peace treaty with Russia.'

'The Treaty was not as bad as Germany argued. By 1925 German steel production was twice that of Britain.'

'The terms of the Treaty were strict, but they were not entirely unexpected. When the Armistice was signed in Nov.1918, the Germans knew they would have to pay reparations, surrender territory and have their armed forces reduced. These were the usual consequences of defeat in war.'

'A free and hostile Czechoslovakia would make it impossible for Germany to fight in the West, as Hitler would then face a war on two fronts which he wanted to avoid.'

Level 3 Explains why

[4–7]

(Award one mark for an explanation, additional mark for full explanation.)

e.g. 'After the First World War, the USA turned its back on Europe and became increasingly isolationist. The Truman Doctrine made it clear that this would not happen after the Second World War by taking 'responsibility for world collaboration' and that 'there would be no more appeasement of dictators.' From now on, every Communist action would meet an American reaction.'

'In 1945 Britain had sent troops to Greece to support the Monarchists against the Communists. In 1947 Britain threatened to withdraw its troops because it could not afford to maintain them there. The USA stepped in and offered funding for British troops to stay and help maintain the monarchy. This was the start of the era of the Truman Doctrine.'

'The Truman Doctrine was significant because the USA was prepared to send money, equipment and advice to any country which was threatened by a Communist take-over. Truman accepted that Eastern Europe was now Communist, but his aim was to stop it spreading further. This policy became known as 'containment.'

'The Truman Doctrine had widespread consequences. It was to lead to the formation of NATO, the arms race and the heavy involvement of US troops not only in Europe but also in Asia, especially in Korea and Vietnam.'

'Following Yalta, it was expected that there would be free elections in eastern European countries after their liberation. The Red Army made sure their new governments were communist controlled.'

'To counter the Marshall Plan, Stalin set up Cominform to strengthen co-operation between communists and Comecon to develop economic co-operation between communist countries.'

'The USA interpreted the Soviet takeover of eastern Europe as the start of spreading communism around the world.'

'The USA response was that the Truman Doctrine offered support to any free peoples struggling to avoid communism.'

'The Marshall Plan was to help the vulnerable European economy suffering from the after effects of war. Stalin refused to allow Soviet bloc countries to accept aid as he thought the real purpose was for the USA to build up friendships with European countries.'

'The USA and the USSR held different ideologies of capitalism and communism and actions led to suspicion and hostility.'

'They drifted apart as the war had ended and there was no common enemy.'

Ebert used the same tactics as he had against the Spartacists. The Freikorps crushed the revolt in May 1919 when 600 Communists were killed.'

'In 1920, there was more Communist agitation in the Ruhr. The police, army and Freikorps again defeated the Communists.'

'In May 1919, the terms of the Treaty of Versailles were announced. Most Germans were appalled. Supporters of the Weimar government felt betrayed by the Allies. The Kaiser was gone so why should they be punished for his war and aggression. Opponents of the regime turned their fury on Ebert.'

'In March 1920, Dr. Kapp led 5,000 Freikorps into Berlin in a rebellion. The army refused to fire on the Freikorps and it looked as if Ebert's government was doomed. It was saved by the ordinary German people. The industrial workers declared a general strike which brought the capital to a halt in protest of the Kapp Putsch. It dissolved away.'
